Instead of a picnic table configuration inside the dog park, 3 benches in U-shape works better for social engagement and leaves space open for dogs to safely roam. Higher fences might be required on the big dog side to prevent dogs jumping the fence and the bottoms of the fences need to be in such a way to prevent small dogs wiggling under to chase kangaroos. |                                                 | Things I have noticed at the scar dog park near Jerra that maybe helpful in considering the design for south Jerra. 1. The big and little dog park owners fight a lot and flood each others parks. So no water troths and taps and opposing ends of the big and little dog park. 2. Not enough shade at scar so perhaps loads of trees 3. The grass is full of prickles at scar and where there is no grass it's mud 4. Several tables or bench seats could be considered as their is only one seat and tables at scar and have them at the two ends of the park. 6. | This is a great looking well designed dog park. | I love the mix of trees and the orchard is a great community facility                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  | JERRABOMBERRA, NSW |  |  |
